Introduction

The Asia Pro Bono Conference and Access to Justice Exchange (APBC & A2JX) is a trademark of the Asia region. Beginning in 2012 in the Lao PDR, the Asia Pro Bono Conference & Access to Justice Exchange is held each year to emphasize and celebrate pro bono and access to justice initiatives being conducted throughout Asia, and globally.

The APBC & A2JX has become the largest annual gathering of persons supporting or engaged in access to justice, pro bono and public interest law in Asia. The event provides a key opportunity for stakeholders to develop, explore and share pro bono and access to justice initiatives and projects that strengthen justice and Rule of Law in Asia and internationally.

The APBC & A2JX has proven to be a milestone event every year, emphasizing and celebrating pro bono and access to justice work conducted across Asia and around the world. The APBC & A2JX's simple and powerful purpose is to promote and further a shared pro bono and access to justice ethos in and beyond Asia. Accordingly, this annual event provides a key opportunity for a diverse array of stakeholders—lawyers, paralegals, academics, law students, jurists, members of civil society, governmental policy makers, and representatives of non-profit organization and for-profit businesses alike—to develop, explore and share pro bono initiatives and projects that strengthen access to justice both in Asia and in other regions of the world.

The philosophy of the APBC & A2JX is unique in that it aims not only to support the annual APBC & A2JX itself, but rather the ever-strengthening Asia and Global Pro Bono and Access to Justice more broadly, beginning with the selection of a different country and local partners to host the APBC & A2JX events each year. More than a mere series of informational talks, the APBC & A2JX is designed primarily as an opportunity for cross-stakeholder engagement, enabling participants to share experiences and to report on longstanding pro bono initiatives as well as on those initiatives that have developed since the previous annual conference. In this way, the APBC & A2JX speaks of both the challenges and successes of the past as well as of the vast potential of new strategies and collaboration to drive the future development of pro bono legal and access to justice culture across Asia, and globally.

The event brings together a diverse collection of lawyers, paralegals, academics, law students, jurists, as well as governmental policy makers, civil society, non-profit and for-profit business representatives. In doing so, the event provides participants a unique platform to engage with each other, share and learn, inspire and be inspired by the positive impact of pro bono on the lives of some of the region's most disadvantaged individuals and marginalised communities.

This year the 14th Asia Pro Bono Conference (“14APBC”), occurring from 2-7 December, in Fukuoka, Japan (and partially virtual). The 14APBC, will be a type of hybrid event, being both an in-person event, and will afford semi-limited additional virtual participation. It will host a multitude of diverse sessions, interactive workshops and presentations, all led by experienced local, regional and international participants engaged in supporting and strengthening pro bono initiatives. A highlight of the conference is the session “Building a Healthier Legal Profession: Wellness, Recovery, and the Global Pro Bono Move.” Continuing a long-standing tradition at the APBC, participants walk, jog, run, or simply move to support greater access to justice through pro bono services. This program brings together your passion for pro bono work with a commitment to a healthy lifestyle, making it a truly unique and engaging experience.

The Access to Justice Exchange (“A2JX”), occurring from 2-3 December and 7 December 2026, will be held in person (and partially virtual), and will consist as a series of workshops, forums, and roundtables. In 2025, the A2JX will provide opportunities for conference participants to attend Access to Justice and Rule of Law related sessions, workshops, meetings and other events. These will vary in both thematic focus and in participant groups involved. Some of the events will be open to persons from around the globe to register (via a separate registration process from the 14APBC) while other events and workshops will be conducted through a pre-selection process. Similarly, while some A2JX events focus on the intersection of Pro Bono, Access to Justice and Rule of Law, all will have strong relevance to justice issues in both the Asia region and globally.

History

Each year, the APBC & A2JX relocates to a new Asian country, with the most recent three Conference and Exchanges, having been held virtually, due to the COVID-19 pandemic. Each of the previous events has advanced and enriched the successful APBC & A2JX tradition in Asia, including:

- Vientiane, Lao PDR | 2012;
- Ho Chi Minh City, Vietnam | 2013;
- Singapore | 2014;
- Mandalay, Myanmar | 2015;
- Bali, Indonesia | 2016;
- Kuala Lumpur, Malaysia | 2017;
- Hong Kong | 2018;
- Kathmandu, Nepal | 2019;
- 2020-2022 – (Held virtually due to COVID-19 restrictions);
- Cebu City, the Philippines | 2023;
- Bangkok, Thailand | 2024 (2024 Access to Justice Exchange (A2JX) held in conjunction with the 2024 PILnet Global Forum)
- Ulaanbaatar, Mongolia | 2025

Fourteen Years of Collective Growth

What began in 2012 in Vientiane, Laos, as a gathering of slightly over one hundred justice advocates, has grown into one of the world's most inclusive and enduring regional pro bono movements. Each year's host country has added new dimensions of learning, leadership, and sustainability—turning a conference into a continuing legacy of reform and renewal.

Through shared experience, mentorship, and the power of example, the APBC&A2JX has helped transform pro bono from an aspiration into an institution—embedding it in laws, professional rules, curricula, and community outreach across Asia and globally.

“ We came together to host an event;
we left with a regional movement. ”

“ When one country strengthens its pro bono culture, the region grows stronger. ”

The Objectives of the Conference & Exchange

In line with this year's Conference & Exchange theme, "Reflections and Collaborative Future Vision," participants are invited to look back on the progress made in advancing access to justice while envisioning new, collective ways forward. While the Conference & Exchange has many objectives, a primary one is to support the development of socially aware legal service providers who actively participate in, advocate for, and lead pro bono initiatives that strengthen access to justice for people in fragile or vulnerable situations. Through shared reflection and forward-looking collaboration, the Conference & Exchange aims to instill and reinforce in participants the knowledge, experiences, skills, and values needed to achieve these goals. Each year, the event highlights key thematic topics and areas of vital importance – and this year's focus includes:

- The Impact of Pro Bono on the Sustainable Development Goals/Goal
- Strengthening Pro Bono Through Technology
- Justice Education and Pro Bono
- Public Interest Law/Strategic Litigation Pro Bono
- The Fundamentals of Pro Bono Services and Systems
- The Intersection and Differences between Pro Bono and Legal Aid

The Conference & Exchange Helps Support the Asia Pro Bono & Access to Justice Movement

The philosophy of the Conference & Exchange is unique because they aim to support the ever-strengthening Asia and Global Pro Bono and Access to Justice Movement more widely. It does this in-part by selecting a specific country and local partners in that country to host the event. It then works to roll it out every year to other countries and partners. The Conference & Exchange is designed to share experiences, report and monitor pro bono initiatives currently being undertaken, as well as those which have developed since the previous year's Conference & Exchange.

Hosts & Organizers

Japan is chosen due to the strong and effective Pro Bono, Access to Justice and Rule of Law initiatives currently being implemented throughout the country. In organizing the event this year, similar to other years past, there will be a diverse Local Organizing Committee (LOC), comprised of key actors in Japan justice sectors. This LOC will work alongside, and in collaboration with the APBC & A2JX Secretariat.

What Makes This Conference & Exchange Unique?

A common question we hear is: Why should this Conference & Exchange be supported? The answer is simple—it stands out because of its collaborative nature and the broad impact it creates. This event is not run by a single organization but is the result of a collective effort by dedicated individuals and organizations from across Asia and around the world. These volunteers come together each year to ensure the event meets high standards, making it a true pro bono law network in action. As a result, the program is always diverse, relevant, and focused on national, regional, and international legal issues that matter to those attending.

The Asia Pro Bono Conference & Access to Justice Exchange is dedicated to fostering a collaborative and inclusive space for legal professionals, advocates, and changemakers. Sponsorships play a significant role in reducing the overall cost of the event, allowing us to keep registration fees affordable while delivering high-quality programming and ensuring broad participation.

With the support of sponsors, we can continue to provide a dynamic platform for networking, knowledge-sharing, and advancing access to justice across the region. Your sponsorship is not just a contribution—it is an investment in strengthening a global movement for justice and pro bono engagement.

This event also plays an important role in connecting the global pro bono movement with related fields such as Legal Empowerment, Justice Education, Legal Aid, Access to Justice, Rule of Law, and Legal Ethics. These areas are deeply connected, and the Conference & Exchange brings together groups that are often working separately, creating new opportunities for collaboration that do not always happen in other events.

Unlike traditional conferences filled with long lectures, this event is designed to be interactive and engaging. Sessions are carefully planned by experienced facilitators who work closely with speakers to develop content that is not only informative but also delivered through active and participatory methods. Because of this, many participants consider it one of the most interesting, professional, and enjoyable conferences of its kind.
